Blow Your Own Horn!

What You Need:
- paper-towel tube
- wax paper or tissue paper
- rubber band
- paint, crayons, or markers
- construction paper
- tape or glue

What You Do:

1. Color or decorate your paper-towel tube.

2. Cover one end of the tube with wax paper or tissue paper. Use the rubber band to hold it tightly in place.

3. Pucker up and put your lips in the open end of the instrument. Hum a tune and toot your own

Which of These Things Is Not Like the Others?

Dorothy wants to know about instruments around the world.

- This long, long instrument from Switzerland is called an alphorn. It is played standing up!

- If you go to India, you can strum the strings of a sitar.

- In Scotland, and in many other countries, people play the bagpipes.

- The didgeridoo, from Australia, is so old, it can be seen in Elmo is playing four musical instruments. But only three of them are horns. Which one is not a horn? How do you know?
